DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

- 1. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:
 - (a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negatived by the manner in which the invention was made.
- 2. Claims 1-2, 13-15, 26-33 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Foth (US 6,473,498) in view of Nomura et al. (US 5,877,872, hereinafter "Nomura").

Regarding claims 1, 14, 27-28, 30-33, Foth discloses a method to urgently receive data via facsimile, comprising:

determining whether an urgent transmission of data is demanded by a second party previously determined to be capable of urgently receiving the data during communication with a first party based on a phone number of the second party (during an outgoing facsimile communication, it is determined that a high priority user is trying to send an incoming facsimile, col. 2, lines 51-56; the high priority user can be identified by the calling number via caller identification decoder 150, col. 2, lines 22-24; col. 3, lines 62-64; col. 4, lines 10-19); and interrupting communication with the first party and receiving the urgent data from the second party upon determining that the urgent transmission of data is required from the second party during communication with the first party (the ongoing facsimile communication is interrupted in order to receive the facsimile communication from the priority user; col. 2, lines 51-56; col. 4, lines 15-19).

Foth differs from the claims in that it does not teach setting a function to urgently receive the data. However, Nomura teaches the well known use of enabling the setting of a function (note mode selection key 54a; Figure 12) so that a user has the option of selecting the standby mode with which an incoming facsimile call is handled (col. 13, line 24 – col. 14, line 5). It would have been obvious to an artisan of ordinary skill at the time of invention to incorporate such a function setting key, as taught by Nomura, within the method of Foth in order to provide the user with the option of enabling or disabling the reception of urgent data from an interrupting party.

Regarding claims 2, 15, 29, in Foth, the urgent receipt function is enabled when the outgoing transmission does not originate from a high priority user (col. 2, lines 48-51).

Regarding claims 13, 26, in Foth, outgoing communications can include voice (col. 2, lines 40-41).

3. Claims 10-12 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Foth in view Nomura, as applied to claim 1 above, and further in view of Naka (JP 07-236007).

Art Unit: 2614

The combination of Foth and Nomura differs from claims 10-11 in that it does not specify restarting communication with the first party upon determining that all data from the second party has been received. However, Naka teaches that after an interruption to fax communication due to urgent transmission, the previous interrupted fax communication is resumed to finish the unfinished transmission (paragraph 0005). Thus, it would have been obvious to an artisan of ordinary skill to modify the combination of Foth and Nomura to resume the previous communication after the priority fax communication has finished in order to complete the interrupted fax communication.

Regarding claim 12, in Foth, an outgoing fax is saved for later transmission (Fig. 6, step 600).

Allowable Subject Matter

4. Claims 3-9, 16-25 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

Response to Arguments

5. Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 1-2, 10-15, 26-33 have been considered but are most in view of the new grounds of rejection.

Conclusion

- 6. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. Abe (US 5,555,294) and JP 02065559 A (Kainuma) show the well known use of mode setting switch in a facsimile machine.
- 7. Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
